TRAVELLER

In 2017 a father and son started hiking in the Canadian Rocky Mountains. What began as a challenge to conquer these peaks was replaced by the discovery that time spent in nature provided a positive boost to mental health and well-being. With each scramble, the transformative power of nature was unlocked.

THE EXHIBIT

This travelling version of Relief: A Transformative Journey Through the Rockies takes Robert Lermeyer's solo exhibit on the road. The Relief Traveller is customizable to fit each exhibitor's setting and best presented between 1000-2000 square feet. The exhibit comes installation ready. The 25 large-scale photographs come with support materials designed for visitor interaction including a 6 minute mini-doc, 2 information panels and title
