Following the sold out success of '100+ Musings' that raised over $6,000 for the CCBC, Barbara Cohen and Jenny Judge have decided to team up for another fundraising exhibition titled 'Dancing on the Wall' at the CCBC on December 2, 2022.

Departing from the more neutral palate of the Musings, Cohen's colourful compositions crafted from fiber, found materials and paint will be shown alongside Judge's wall pieces of cast-plaster sewing paraphernalia; together they will create a lively and lighthearted engagement on the gallery walls. In addition, some of the pieces will be a collaboration between the two artists and Judge will include her very popular four-inch cast buttons that will be sold individually.

Both well established artists feel strongly about 'giving back' and contributing to the gallery's mandate to support and encourage artistic exploration. All work will be donated and priced well below their market value with a wide range of prices. Since each composition will be made up of several pieces, a template, push pins and picture will accompany each work sold so that they can easily be re-hung.

While Cohen and Judge use different materials, they share a sensibility and artistic integrity that will make 'Dancing on the Wall' an exhibition not to be missed.
